

The Scuttlebutt

MAY 2018

Mother's Day! May flowers~ we're ready for it all.. not to mention the dolphin bite! Seen the white butterflies around? Sure sign the Dolphin are not far behind. (Mahi-Mahi for us folks who like to eat them). Enjoy Spring!

White Butterflies and Mahi-Mahi

It's an ol' fishing tale, tall but true. When the white butterflies start flying around the beaches, it's time to go fishing for dolphin. Bring back some good dinner and good stories for the cleaning table. Get out there and have some fun!

Happy Mother's Day!

What mom doesn't love to go for a boat ride? Especially with a good glass of wine! Even a sunset trip for an hour or so usually will keep you in good fishing karma for the summer. Get out there and bring Mom for a ride!

Zap The Tape

Nothing is more maddening than a roll of masking tape that won't unroll, but only comes off in little bits. Before tossing it in the trash, an ornery roll of tape can often be brought back to life with a quick blitz in the microwave. Don't overcook it: 5 to 10 seconds is often more than enough to revitalize the adhesive and return the roll to taping nirvana.

Keep It Solvent

Boat owners use lots of caulks and compounds in cartridges. Half-used tubes that sit for more than a day or two often dry up, then get thrown in the trash. To avoid wastage, cover the end of the cut nozzle with a good dollop of petroleum jelly. It will keep the air out and prevent the contents of the tube from hardening.
